

Linux Text Processing Commands

cat

Definition:

`cat` displays the contents of a file or combines multiple files.

Usage / Formula:

`cat [options] file(s)`

Examples:

`cat notes.txt`

Output:

```
Line 1
Line 2
Line 3
```

`cat file1.txt file2.txt`

Output:

```
Content of file1
Content of file2
```

tac

Definition:

`tac` displays file contents in reverse.

Usage / Formula:

`tac [options] file`

Examples:

`tac notes.txt`

Output:

```
Line 3
Line 2
Line 1
```

`tac list.txt`

Output:

```
C
B A
```

head

Definition:

head displays the first lines of a file (10 for the example).

Usage / Formula:

head [options] file

Examples:

head notes.txt

Output:

```
Line 1
Line 2
Line 3
```

head -n 2 notes.txt

Output:

```
Line 1
Line 2
```

tail

Definition:

tail displays the last lines of a file (10 for the example).

Usage / Formula:

tail [options] file

Examples:

tail notes.txt

Output:

```
Line 8
Line 9
Line 10
```

tail -n 2 notes.txt Output:

```
Line 9
Line 10
```

cut

Definition:

cut extracts selected sections from each line.

Usage / Formula:

```
cut [options] file
```

Examples:

```
cut -c 1-4 notes.txt
```

Output:

```
Line
Line
```

```
cut -d "," -f 1 names.csv
```

Output:

```
Alex
Robert
```

awk

Definition:

awk is a text-processing tool used to search, filter, and manipulate text based on patterns and fields.

Usage / Formula:

```
awk 'pattern { action }' file
```

Examples:

```
awk '{print $1}' names.txt
```

Output:

```
Alex
robert Potato
```

```
awk -F "," '{print $1, $3}' data.csv
```

Output:

```
Alex 24
robert 50
potato 1
```

sort

Definition:

`sort` orders lines alphabetically or numerically.

Usage / Formula:

`sort [options] file`

Examples:

`sort names.txt`

Output:

```
Alex
robert platano
```

`sort -n numbers.txt` Output:

```
1
5
10
```

WC

Definition:

`wc` counts lines, words, and characters.

Usage / Formula:

`wc [options] file`

Examples:

`wc notes.txt`

Output:

```
10  50  300 notes.txt
```

`wc -l notes.txt`

Output:

10